ONE DEFENDER

SEES VICTORYBECK SAYS COURT

3.2 BREW

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—A senate judiciary subcommittee tonight made ready to act on the house 3.2 percent beer bill after public hearing at which friends and foes of the legislation bombarded the members with conflicting views on the constitutionality of the measure.

Half a dozen representatives of organizations supporting prohibition assailed the bill as a proposal to "nullify" the constitution and said it would legalize traffic in intoxicating liquor.

A lone defender of the bill, Representative James M. Beck (R., Pa.), said it came within the "field of legislative discretion" and predicted the supreme court would uphold it.

The hearing ended in a discussion between Beck and Bishop James C. Connelley, Jr., on the question of whether the wine used in the Biblical marriage sacrament at Cana was fermented and a controversy over the significance of the recent election.

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—Staving off a host of amendments that would seek to throw nearly every major agricultural commodity within the covers of their emergency farm bill was the big job to which its Democratic sponsors tonight looked forward.

Chairman Jones promised a last-ditch fight on the house floor against "wrecking" the bill his agricultural committee reported by overloading it with amendments. Still confident of passage, Jones said he wanted it to go to the senate "as nearly intact as possible."

The measure embodies the domestic allotment plan.

Some members felt that if the house seems inclined toward much addition or subtraction before a final vote, this bill will lose the support—now generally credited to it—of President-Elect Roosevelt.

Search for Bodies
In Burned Liner

Cherbourg, France, Jan. 7 (AP)—A hunt for bodies aboard the burned passenger liner Atlantique today delayed salvage operations, which were halted pending the arrival tomorrow of a special committee of enquiry, on which there are electrical experts.

Big streams of water, shot into the hull throughout the day, diminished the smoke, and the fire apparently was rapidly abating. The Atlantique was towed to the docks where ships from America arrive, Captain Schoofs, master of the vessel which burned Wednesday with a loss of eighteen members of the crew, said he had seen three bodies aboard the ship.

Salvagers reported tonight they had found five charred bodies, two of which were those of stokers on the Atlantique.

WALSH SLATED
FOR CABINET?Roosevelt Leaves Budget
Balancing Job to Congress

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Hyde Park, N. Y., Jan. 7 (AP)—Cabinet selections and future policies commanded the attention of President-elect Roosevelt as he silently watched the row in Washington over income tax increases to balance the budget.

Content that the congressional Democrats are going to go to the end of the road at this session to balance the budget, Mr. Roosevelt is leaving the details to them and is ready to support the income tax boost they proposed as one means at Friday night's party.

Announcement that Senator Walsh, of Montana, veteran senate prosecutor of the oil scandals investigation of the Harding administration, would be a caller here tomorrow, revived speculation over the cabinet. He has been prominently mentioned for attorney general.

Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, Republican Independent who has been at constant odds with the Hoover administration, also will be a caller at the Hyde Park Roosevelt estate on the Hudson river, tomorrow. It is stated that this meeting will be personal rather than political. It is expected that Roosevelt and Mr. Stimson will meet Monday night at the New York City home of Roosevelt.

Nanking To Adopt
Peaceful Attitude

Shanghai, Jan. 7 (AP)—Despite public clamor for armed action against Japan, indications today after a series of conferences among Chinese military and civilian leaders were that the nationalist government at Nanking would adopt a policy of avoiding any steps aggravating to the Japanese.

Chiang Kai-shek, the strongest military commander of the nation, apparently dominated the discussions which resulted in this decision. No official announcement of the government's policy was made, but it was evident that China desired a quick settlement of the conflict resulting from Japan's occupation of the city of Shanghai.

New Election System Makes It
Easy for Vice-President Curtis

BY BESS FURMAN

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—Vice-President Curtis, keeper of the elaborately sealed ballots in the contest of Roosevelt vs. Hoover, Garner vs. Curtis, chuckles to think how much simpler is the task than it used to be for his predecessors.

No longer ago than January 12, 1925, the electors of each state selected one of their number to carry the electoral vote to Washington, and a $12,500 appropriation was needed to pay their expenses.

True, duplicate certificates were sent by registered mail, but the personal conductors came too, following a system planned away back when that was considered the safest way to send an important document.

The vice-president was kept busy greeting the messengers, who busy greeted a merry game of it. Those from far states would take

GUNMEN WIPE OUT ALLY OF CAPONE GANGJEWELLED VICTIM IS IDENTIFIED AS NEWBERRY

Chesterton, Ind., Jan. 7 (AP)—Ted Newberry, ally of the Capone mob, was removed today from Chicago's underworld.

Shotgun and pistol slugs mutilated his head and body, found this morning on a lonely Indiana road near Lake Michigan. At his waist glittered a cluster of diamonds and emeralds, one of the jeweled belt buckles Al Capone presented his pals.

Newberry's attorney, Abe Moravitz, rushed from Chicago and made the identification.

Fear War Reopened

Metropolitan police investigating the first assassination of a gangland "big shot" in more than a year, feared the death of Newberry presaged another outbreak between factions fighting for control of Chicago's liquor and vice rackets.

It was a typical gangster death for one of the last of the major figures in the dynasty over which Al Capone ruled before the federal government sent him to retirement—and safety—in Atlanta prison.

Obviously, officers said, Newberry had been slain elsewhere, perhaps in or near Chicago. Pistol bullets had blasted through his head. A shotgun slug had almost amputated his right hand.

On Lonely Road

As in all gangland "rides," the end came during the night at a lonely roadside. Then his body was dumped from an automobile, where it was found about 9 a. m., by a farmer, lad.

As to the motive for Newberry's killing, officials speculated it might have been retaliation for an alcohol hijacking or the result of a quarrel involving Newberry and other leaders of the "syndicates" which has arisen in Chicago since the elder Capone went to prison.

Another possibility was that Newberry had been trying to expand the Chicago territory ruled by his subordinates, or that new figures were arising in the underworld, lusty for power and seeking to overthrow the old order.

"Drove Her Crazy"
So She Shot Him

Monroe, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—A police prisoner in a local hospital, Mrs. Rose Duvall, 55, told Prosecutor Attorney Clayton C. Golden today that she was crazed by an infatuation her husband held for a 17-year-old girl, when she shot and fatally wounded him last night.

The husband, Irving Duvall, 38, foreman in a local nursery plant, was found with a bullet in his abdomen on a stairway leading to the second floor of his home in Union street about 10:30 o'clock last night. He died an hour later in a hospital.

Road Tax Levies
Cut 16 Millions

Lansing, Jan. 7 (AP)—G. C. Dillman, state highway commissioner, said Saturday that the amount of property taxes levied for highway purposes last year was $6,270,993, compared with $22,854,095 in 1930. The figures apply to local levies only, inasmuch as state road programs are financed out of gasoline and weight tax revenues.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—Gov. William A. Cockerill today received the resignation of Lucius Lee Hubbard, of Houghton, member of the board of regents of the University of Michigan.

Mr. Hubbard, a personal friend of the governor's, gave ill-health as his reason for resigning. His term would have expired Dec. 31, 1935. Mr. Hubbard had been on the board since 1910. The governor has not yet appointed a successor to Mr. Hubbard. The appointee is expected to be a Democrat and if so will be the first representative of the party to sit on the board since Gov. Comstock himself was a member, serving under appointment of the late Woodbridge N. Ferris, Michigan's last Democratic governor, until Gov. Comstock's election.

Four-Year-Old Boy
Denver Fire Hero

Denver, Jan. 7 (AP)—Four year old Milo MacKenzie saved his infant brother and sister from death as fire destroyed the suburban MacKenzie home last night.

The boy dragged his sister, Flora MacBelle, 2, and ten months old brother, Donald, out of the burning home on a blanket. The parents were away from home.

When the Englewood volunteer fire department arrived the home had burned to the ground and the children were huddled together, shivering in the cold.

Nation's Notables Attend Last
Simple Rites for Ex-President

Plymouth, Vt., Jan. 7 (AP)—Calvin Coolidge rested tonight among his native hills.

In the quiet country graveyard beside the road that winds past the old homestead of his boyhood, his body was lowered to its last sleep as the shadows of a wintry day crept down the mountain sides.

A nation had paid its tribute in simple funeral services in the modest church of Northampton, the city where he began his career as mayor years ago and to which he retired when he stepped down from the highest office in the land less than four years ago.

President Hoover, to whom he turned over the reins of government, and Mrs. Hoover, men high in world affairs, the friends and neighbors with whom he walked and talked in his daily affairs joined in sorrowful tribute at the church.

Then, along highways lined by men and women, standing silently and reverently, their heads bowed, he was carried back to the tiny village among the mountains where the neighbors of other days had gathered to pay their final respects.

Sixty years ago—last 4th of July—he was born in Plymouth. There were some among the crowd that stood with bowed heads in a pelting hail storm as his body was lowered into the grave, who had known him most of those years.

BANK BANDITS
ARE CAPTUREDOne Shot Near Hart;
Three Surrender
To Posse

Hart, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—The four bandits who Thursday robbed the Kaleva state bank of $3,000 and shot to death the cashier, Elsworth Billman, were captured tonight in a swamp twenty miles east of here.

Three of them surrendered after their companion had been shot and captured.

The three who surrendered threw down their arms when flashlights in the hands of a squad of state police and deputy sheriffs were turned upon them where they were cowering in a clump of bushes. They made no attempt to fight.

They identified themselves as Mike Zellers of Lake Port, Mich., and Harley Shelton and Bob Benjamin of Indianapolis, Ind.

"Awful hungry!"

Large rolls of currency also some $5 gold pieces were found in the clothing of each of the four men. Police had not had an opportunity to count the money, but they said they believed it was nearly all of the $3,000 loot taken from the bank. They said no bonds were found, but believed they might have been left in a car abandoned by the slayers yesterday near Baldwin.

The men made no detailed statements at the scene of their capture but Zellers was quoted as having said: "We're the fellows you want all right. But we're awful hungry."

Thompson, or Robertson, in a partial confession as he lay on a cot in the hospital here, said none of the quartet had eaten since yesterday, when they were stranded by motor trouble. He said they abandoned their stolen car near Baldwin, tramped for several miles, spent the night in the woods, then hiked today to the swamp where they were captured.

Demanding food, said Zellers, Cloud, officers said, that it was he who shot Elsworth Billman, 55, cashier of the bank. Zellers was quoted as saying he drove the car used in the flight.

Robinson was operated upon tonight and physicians said the bullet had punctured his intestines but had missed his bladder which, they first had thought was ruptured. The doctors said his condition was "fair."

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—Gov. William A. Cockerill today received the resignation of Lucius Lee Hubbard, of Houghton, member of the board of regents of the University of Michigan.

There was a momentary lull in the storm as the procession drew up the road and halted beside the grave. Mrs. Coolidge stepped from her car as the bronze casket bearing the body of the thirtieth president of the United States, was lifted from the hearse and borne along the narrow pathway to the grave dug between that of Mr. Coolidge's stepmother, Carrie, and that of his son, Calvin Jr., who died while his father was president.

Mrs. Coolidge, her son John and his wife, Florence Traubnitz Coolidge, walked in single file up the path to the grave. Behind followed Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stears of Boston and a few close friends. Only these close friends were admitted to the cemetery.

Prayer and Poem

Grouped on the hillside across the road were those from the villages and farms of the countryside. Among them were men and women clad in the homely clothing of the fields.

Rain and hail fell upon their bowed heads as the little family group assembled beneath a canvas marquee above the grave and the Rev. Albert J. Pennor, pastor of the Edwards Congregational church of Northampton, who conducted the funeral service, stepped forward for the burial. He intoned the simple committal service for the dead. There was a brief prayer, a poem. The service ended.

Mrs. Coolidge stepped back and walked firmly from the graveyard, her son and his wife with her. A moment later and she had entered her car. She drove to the old home, stead from which she and Mr. Coolidge returned to Northampton barely two months ago after their summer visit and there received the sympathy of Miss Aurora Piercen, long housekeeper at the home. Then she turned homeward, to Northampton.

It was in his home there, "The Beeches," that he died, stricken without warning by a heart attack. Today his body was carried from the city of Detroit to leave $20,000,000 in tax anticipation bonds to meet current operating expenses in effect upheld in circuit court here today. Judge Guy A. Miller dismissed a suit brought on behalf of the holder of one city bond, in which it was sought to prevent the bond issue.

Plaintiff in the suit was Mrs. Daisy E. Harsha, owner of a bond purchased in 1912. Through her attorney, John R. Rood, she sought to establish that issuance of the new bonds would raise the bonding limit beyond the eight per cent fixed at the time she purchased her bond.

Her suit also questioned the legality of the act which raised the bonding limit to 10 per cent in 1929.

Judge Miller held that the bond Mrs. Harsha had purchased was not in default, and that the legislature had the power to change the bonding limit when occasion arises.

City officials and others have held that without the issuance of the new bonds the city would be forced into default on obligations maturing early this month. The enabling act was passed by a special session of the state legislature called for that purpose late last month.

Los Angeles, Jan. 7 (AP)—Former residents of Michigan opened the 1933 picnic season here today, and nobody likes to picnic here better than a former resident of somewhere else.

Nearly everybody in the Los Angeles area over 20 years of age came here from elsewhere. Upwards of a million of them get together outdoors at one time or another every year, eat basket lunches, and talk about what they used to do back home.

Picnics begin early in January and continue on nearly every Saturday and holiday until late December. Every state has an organization which sponsors one or two picnics a year. There probably are more hands shaken and more old times talked over per capita out here than anywhere else under the sun.

"Why, I've seen old folks stand and talk with hands clasped and tears running down their cheeks," said C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State Societies. "Maybe they had gone through school together and then drifted apart. They happened to stumble upon each other here at a picnic. It may bring tears to their eyes, but it is one of the happiest moments of their lives."

Parsons knows because he has been secretary of the federation ever since it was organized in 1909.

"Iowa gets the biggest picnic turn out," said Parsons, "sometimes more than 100,000. Minnesota is next."

Government Will Push Efforts to Extradite Insult

Chicago, Jan. 7 (AP)—The federal government plans to reopen efforts for extradition of Samuel Insull from Greece.

Secretary of State Stimson in a telegram to Governor Louis Emmerson forwarded to State's attorney Thomas J. Courtney today asked that Andrew J. Vlachos, assistant state's attorney from Cook county, be permitted to remain in Greece because the federal government plans to reopen the case.

The Greek government, a few weeks ago refused extradition of the former utilities head, under indictment here on charges of embezzlement as the result of the collapse of the Insull utility empire.

The mayor revealed the plan today which he said would be included in his annual message to the council.

"People will be given relief," he said, "but not endlessly. The problem ought to move entirely into a wage work plan. An effort will be made to perfect the wage work plan which is about to be launched, and it will be in the interest of the clients as well as the community."

The wage work plan calls for the employment of able-bodied men in the various city departments at the rate of 30 cents an hour for a wage sufficient to pay their welfare allowances. The men would be paid in check instead of grocery orders because investigators report that the purchasing power of money is 18 per cent greater in the hands of a shrewd buyer than an order on a single store.

With Harrison's safe return a fact, Prosecutor William Dexter Paley tonight revealed that a shortage had been found in the former treasurer's account.

"A preliminary audit shows an apparent shortage of about $5,000 in the cash accounts of the county's funds," the prosecutor said. "However, we are still checking the items, and I expect the preliminary audit to show whether a complete audit is necessary."

City officials and others have held that without the issuance of the new bonds the city would be forced into default on obligations maturing early this month. The enabling act was passed by a special session of the state legislature called for that purpose late last month.

BIG AUTOMOBILE
DISPLAY OPENED

Like Three-Ring Circus:
Prices Range From
$275 to $10,000

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
New York, Jan. 7 (AP)—The 27 doors of Grand Central Palace were thrown open today on a scintillating display of automobiles which the manufacturers hope will bring millions of dollars out of hiding and help return America to economic normalcy.

It is the thirty-third national automobile show, and thousands who swarmed through the doors saw, for the first time, an exhibition that has many aspects of a three-ring circus.

Instead of the usual assortment of motionless cars, one looked on acres of whirling, noise-making, spinning, attention-compelling contraptions.

And it was like a circus because there is so much to see—four floors filled with displays, along a route that takes 107 minutes to cover at a normal walking pace, even if you don't do any stopping.

Twenty-eight domestic makes of passenger cars, one foreign car and nine trucks are represented.

The cheapest automobile in the show is one of four cylinders at $275. The other extreme is a 12-cylinder car marked $10,000. It represents what its designer says the car of 1943 will look like.

Butler Of Oregon
Dies Of Pneumonia

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—Representative Butler of Oregon died today of heart disease induced by pneumonia. He had been ill for several weeks and unconscious for the last few days.

Butler was serving his third term in congress. Last November, however, the 6-foot 2-inch tall congressman was defeated for re-election in a strenuous campaign which his friends said they believed so tired him as to make him susceptible to pneumonia.

His daughter, Elizabeth Annabelle Butler, 20, at her father's request, had remained in school at the University of Oregon. He was born September 24, 1880, in a little Tennessee town of the same name as his. He first went to Holly Springs college, a small mountain country institution, and later was graduated from the legal department of Cumberland university at Lebanon.

After practicing law in Tennessee for a time, he moved to Oregon in 1906. He served in the Oregon senate, as a presidential elector, and later was elected to congress, defeating Walter M. Pierce, formerly governor of the state. Last election, though, Pierce finally defeated him.

Hard Times Cause
Indians to Invoke
Old Treaty Rights

Seattle, Jan. 7 (AP)—Northwest Indians are beating the white man's "hard times" by invoking treaty rights granted over 60 years ago, whereby they claim the right to trap, hunt and fish as no white man dared.

Their leaders and purses are aided by parchments their ancestors signed in council with territorial governors and blue-coated cavalrymen, and by partial revision to the diet common here, before traders and soldiers started the influx of guns, gin and game laws.

Few if any of them live entirely off the rivers and forests, but they always contended their hunting and fishing rights were reserved when they gave up their lands.

Today they trap animals forbidden by game laws to white men, hunt in and out of season, and eat salmon caught by the nets tobaccoed to others.

Jackson Man Wins
Parachute Contest

Miami, Fla., Jan. 7 (AP)—Roy Liggett, of Wichita, Kansas, captured the coveted Colonel E. H. R. Green $4,500 trophy prize of the all-American air races today, beating five other crack speed pilots in a spectacular dash over a three-cornered thirty-mile course.

His average speed in a Cessna monoplane was 194.656 miles an hour.

John Livingston of Utica, N. Y., was second, finishing almost on the tail of Liggett's speedster at 191.363 miles an hour.

Death Rate Drops
In Michigan Cities

Washington, Jan. 7. (AP)—A decrease during 1932 in the death rate of three of Michigan's largest cities is revealed in a list of 85 principal cities of the United States prepared by the census bureau.

For the country as a whole the rate was 11.2 persons out of every thousand as compared with 11.7 at the end of 1931, a drop of five tenths per cent.

Detroit's rate dropped from 7.5 to 6.1 per cent; Flint's from 7.1 to 6.7 and Grand Rapids' from 9.1 to 8.8.

The first of existing roadside markets in Ohio were established as early as 1903, though more than three-fourths were established in the last six years.

the home to the church where for an hour it lay in state as men and women and children filed past in their last farewell.

There was far too little time for all to enter who would have done so. There were far too few seats within the walls for those who would have attended the funeral service.

They filled the street standing silently as the body was borne in and throughout the funeral service, parting to make way for the president of the United States and his wife and those others with whom Calvin Coolidge had worked and associated in his years of public life.

There were among them Vice President Curtis, Charles E. Hughes, chief justice of the United States, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the president-elect, and with her, her son, James. There was Justice Stone of the supreme court, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of Navy Charles Francis Adams and Secretary of Commerce Roy D. Chapin. There were members of the United States senate and the house of representatives, governors of his neighboring New England states and representatives of foreign governments, headed by Ambassador Paul Claudel of France.

The casket rested before the flower-banked pulpit of the church, a guard of honor beside it.

"Lead, Kindly Light"

President and Mrs. Hoover arrived from Washington a half-hour before the time set for the service. They entered the church a few minutes before the service was to start and were escorted to a seat in the front pew directly below the casket. The doors had already closed to the public, leaving hundreds in the street outside.

Mrs. Coolidge, accompanied by her son and daughter-in-law, entered and took her place in the front pew with President and Mrs. Hoover. Mrs. John Coolidge sat at her right, between her and Mrs. Hoover. In pews nearby the vice president and Chief Justice Hughes were seated and behind them were others of the Washington delegation.

The organ played softly, a selection from Dvorak's "New World Symphony" as the service opened. The youthful clergyman stepped forward and began his brief invocation.

A quartet sang the hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light" and the minister read from the Scriptures, first the 46th Psalm, beginning "God is our refuge and strength" and then the 121st Psalm, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the mountains, from whence my help shall come."

Served His Country

Then he began his prayer: "Almighty God, our heavenly Father, at this moment a whole nation, stricken with grief, bows before Thee."

"But it is not alone a grief-stricken nation which bows before Thee—it is a thankful nation as well. We thank Thee for the life of him whose death we now mourn. We thank Thee for what his life has meant to the country and to the world."

"We thank Thee for the exemplary devotion which he showed in the discharge of his public duties. We thank Thee for the faithfulness with which he served his town. We thank Thee for the measure of dedication which he brought to the service of the commonwealth, and above all do we bless Thee for the consecration with which he served his country in the highest office within the gift of the people. He kept his faith which the people placed in him."

As he ended his prayer, the quartet broke softly into the strains of "O Love that Will Not Let Me Go" and with the close of the selection Mr. Penner pronounced the benediction.

Sun Comes Out

Throughout the service President Hoover sat with head bowed. Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Coolidge followed closely with their eyes as the clergyman went through the impressive words of the service. His benediction ended, the organ again sounded softly and the congregation rose and stood while Mrs. Coolidge walked down the aisle, between her son and his wife.

Mrs. Coolidge was driven back to her home, "The Beeches," where President and Mrs. Hoover joined her a few moments later. They remained with her for several minutes before leaving for the special train which carried them back to Washington.

The casket bearing Mr. Coolidge's body was borne from the church by six Northampton police men, among them men who had served under him during his term as mayor. It was placed in the hearse, the cortege formed and headed northward toward the Vermont line.

As the procession, numbering a score of automobiles, moved along the highway, which had fallen intermittently during the day, poured from the skies, but seemingly in welcome, the sun broke through the clouds as the Vermont line was crossed.

Along the highway scores of automobiles were parked and their occupants stood with bowed heads while the cortege passed. Flags on public buildings and private homes fluttered at half staff. Here and there children stood in groups. Before one country school house of the type the young Calvin attended the pupils were lined in two rows at attention.

Legion Pays Tribute

In Bellows Falls a delegation of war veterans, members of the American Legion, in uniform, stood at attention as the procession passed.

As the way became more winding and the grades steeper, settlements were farther apart, but along the way and beside isolated farm houses men stood in silent and bareheaded respect. There were women in some groups—and children.

Boys in Boy Scout uniforms stood at attention or in salute. Often men were seen to touch their hands to their caps or hats, token of service in the army or navy of which Calvin Coolidge once was commander-in-chief.

The cortege moved more slowly as the narrower, country roads, made slippery from the rain, were traversed. It was later than the hour set for the burial when it entered this little hamlet of seven houses. Barely ten minutes had passed before the service was concluded.

The rattle of a sudden burst of hail, falling through the bare branches of the elms and maples, mingled with the firm timbre of the clergyman's voice as he began the short committal service.

"All that the Father giveth me shall come unto me and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out," he began. He finished, and the body was lowered into the grave.

The clergyman uttered a brief prayer and then recited the words of Robert Richardson's poem, concluding with the words, "Good night, dear heart, good night, good night." A simple benediction ended the service.

CASHIER SENTENCED

Grand Rapids, Jan. 7 (AP)—Pleading guilty to falsifying bank records, Frank Peters, former cashier of the Jamestown State bank, was sentenced in circuit court Saturday to two to 24 years in the reformatory at Ionia. He said he made the false entries to cover up losses of $22,177 suffered by the bank. He was not charged with taking any of the money himself.

Jackson and organized that prison's industries.

He said that he hoped to effect economies that would result in a saving of $1,000,000 a year, and announced he would seek to place all the state prisons on a self-sustaining basis.

The house and senate confined their activities during the week mainly to matters of organization and adjourned shortly afterward as a mark of respect to the late former President Coolidge, whose death was announced as Governor Comstock was reading his inaugural message.

The much talked about speakership of the house was settled during the week with the selection of Rep. Martin Bradley, of Menominee, for that post. In the senate the Democrats decided to remove all Republican employees excepting Mrs. Alice Warner, who has been assistant secretary for several sessions, and Charles Parrish, present bill clerk, who will be made assistant bill clerk.

Don Canfield, of Detroit, was selected to succeed Fred Chase, of Lansing, as secretary of the senate.

One of Governor Comstock's appointments ran into a snag temporarily at least during the week, when the senate deferred confirmation of Samuel T. Metzger as commissioner of agricultural department. Charges of having incorrectly branded a shipment of potatoes into Ohio have been filed in federal court at Grand Rapids against Metzger.

Won't Fill Vacancy

Republican members directed attention to the charges when Metzger's appointment came up. The appointment probably will be returned to the senate floor next week and confirmation is likely because of the Democratic majority in the senate.

A threatened row over the dismissal of Fred Armstrong as deputy commissioner of the department of public safety flattened out when after a conference with Governor Comstock, Armstrong tendered his resignation. Previously he had questioned the governor's authority to remove him, saying the law creating the department specified he could be relieved only after his successor had qualified. Governor Comstock said that as a measure of economy he did not intend to fill Armstrong's place and the latter offered his resignation when assured his record was not under fire.

Governor Comstock in his message to the legislature outlined the things he believed the state's law-makers should concern themselves with at present. Indicating he felt the more pressing problems should be disposed of first, he suggested other matters be left for possible special sessions.

"Sport" Hermann's
Theatre Changed
Into Auto Garage

The Cort theatre in Chicago, owned and operated by U. J. (Sport) Hermann, well known in Escanaba, is giving away before the depression and hereafter will house automobiles, according to news dispatches from Chicago.

For 23 years, the Cort theatre has been one of the outstanding amusement centers in Chicago. The playhouse, said to be the first "atmosphere" theatre, with the ceiling resembling the sky, is being converted into an eight-story 200-car garage.

Sport Hermann was born on Poverty Island, Delta county, the son of a lighthouse keeper there. He went to Chicago many years ago, first working as a billposter and finally acquiring a fortune in the radio appliance manufacturing business. The Cort theatre, which he owned, offered many high class plays to theatregoers in its years of operation.

Hermann is a close friend of former Mayor William Hale Thompson and Eugene F. McDonald of Chicago.

Philadelphia, Jan. 7. (AP)—Recovering consciousness after a day and a half of coma, Dennis Boyle told police today that he and 19-year-old Rose McCloskey, unemployed salesgirl, were attacked by two men while they sat in Fairmount park the night the girl was slain.

Speaking coherently for the first time since he was attacked and the girl beaten to death—her head crushed and her throat cut—Boyle told detectives the men attacked them as they sat on a secluded bench.

Movie Star Jewel
Thief Band Sought

Los Angeles, Jan. 7 (AP)—Search for an organized band of robber-extortionists, proving on motion picture notables was announced today by Chief of Detectives Taylor in a statement saying he believed the $37,500 jewel robbery of Betty Compton last Thursday night and the previous robberies of Helene Costello and Zeppo Marx, were committed by a Chicago ring.

Miss Compton pleaded with police not to prosecute the hunt.

April election, inclusion of a pre-primary convention statute in the election law, sales and income taxes, old age pensions and steps for unemployment relief through a "work" program also were recommended. Shortly afterward the administrative board's highway committee approved a proposal to seek an $8,000,000 loan to provide part time work for 40,000 men during the winter.

CORNELL NEWS

Cornell, Mich.—With the passing on Sunday morning of Stephen Charlebois, Cornell lost another of its real pioneers. Mr. Charlebois came to Cornell about thirty-eight years ago and saw Cornell in its infancy as he was one of the first if not the first of its settlers.

Shortly after the coming of Mr. Charlebois to this vicinity, Mrs. Anna Donovan who passed away about three weeks ago also moved in.

These people knew pioneering at its hardest as there were no roads, no telephones, no mail routes and the nearest doctor was about eighteen miles away. The hardships which they endured were many and instead of weakening them only fitted them the better for the part they were to play in the development of the country.

Although their names may not be engraved on great public monuments, the esteem in which they were held by their neighbors and business associates, shows that they were the type of people that any community is poorer for losing.

Mr. Allen Way has been ill during the past week with an attack of gallstones.

A skating party took place at the Terrien rink Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Donovan and baby were visitors at the C. Sanborn home Sunday.

Many of the youngsters of this community have been suffering from a seige of the pink eye.

Mrs. Martin Henkel was severely scalded last Friday when she spilled boiling water on her hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Miron are the parents of a daughter born on the evening of Dec. 23.

John Henry is visiting at Nadeau for a few days.

Sanford Harrod was suddenly called to his home in Indiana by the death of his mother, Wednesday. He and his wife left Thursday morning at three o'clock to attend the funeral services.

Many persons of this vicinity are suffering from the flu. Ed. Marenger and Louis Fleming are confined to bed with it.

Olaf and Evert Hedberg are working for Albert Larson on his lumber job at Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. David Delveaux and daughter Anna and son August and Mrs. Edward Carrigan motored to New Franken, where they will attend the funeral of a sister of Mrs. Delveaux.

'Honest Congressman' Flays Public Apathy

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
(NEA Service Writer)

Washington — Annual interview with Mr. George Huddleston of Alabama, the honest congressman:

"The least said about this session of congress, the better," says Mr. Huddleston. "We seem to be drifting along here without any purpose in view."

"The responsibility of congress for the people of the country are primarily responsible for what congress does. What ever we do here is what public opinion requires of us and there is now no lusty, coherent, intelligent public opinion."

"Congress does nothing because nobody in authority has the guts to do anything which is not desirable from the standpoint of political partisanship. The Democrats and Republicans have no plans except to coast along on the theory that business will pick up."

"Most of those in positions of responsibility in political and economic life are not willing to accept economic conditions and what they really imply. Their ideal is to return to the 1927-28 period with out making the necessary sacrifices. So governmental policy, under the inspiration of public sentiment, tends toward loans and other governmental aid to sustain businesses which can never be made self-supporting with existing management and methods."

"If the people back home won't think, how do you expect us to think? If we try to balance the budget and start to cut the veterans, employees' salaries, the army and navy, agricultural benefits and other large items, public opinion doesn't sustain us."

"We dare not levy the taxes which are necessary. For partisan political reasons we refrain from a sales tax. Congressmen are very likely to be defeated if they vote for a sales tax because the vast majority of people, who pay no taxes now, would resent it."

"We piddle away at budget-balancing, promising to tax those best able to pay and nobody is able to pay. At the last session we kept putting out political bank to the effect that we had balanced the budget and the public took us at our word. Business improved at once. But by September the people realized we had only been fooling them."

Mr. Huddleston, despite his use of the first personal plural, is not a party to the business he describes. He is one of the few really independent congressmen and is often brave enough to take the unpopular side.

"Having sustained a loss in three years of fifty to a hundred billion dollars in national wealth we can only restore it by readjustment and hard work," he says. "More wealth can only be attained by balanced production and better distribution. Business tries to cut down wealth instead of getting it distributed."

"Credit, life blood of business, must be restored. But juggling with money and credit and postponing debts only impairs credit. The big things congress can do are: (1) balance the budget; (2) restore confidence in the banking situation; (3) clear up the European debt situation and restore commercial relations by removing trade barriers instead of pandering demagogically to prejudice; (4) destroy trade barriers between our own people, where lies 90 per cent of our trade."

"The only thing we can do with agriculture is to give her a fair deal and there can be no real recovery unless it is a fair, distributed recovery."

134 VIOLATIONS OF DEER LAWS

42 Men Convicted of Illegal Possession of Venison

Lansing — Excessive violations of deer hunting laws, when compared with the few licensed deer hunters, were reported by the division of field administration of the department of conservation for the November, 1932 season.

Of the 417 convictions for violations of conservation laws in Michigan during November, 134 were for violations of various deer laws.

Forty-two men were convicted of illegal possession of venison, a figure which according to the division is the highest for any one month in the history of the department. This charge includes illegal possession of does and of venison before or after the open hunting season.

Eighty-five men were convicted of hunting without a license and of these 70 were deer hunters, the report stated.

Among the other deer law violations reported were: shooting a doe 1; killing deer out of season 7; killing a fawn 4; shining deer 9 and hunting deer from a scaffold 1. Four were found guilty of selling venison and three for failing to attach a seal to the deer.

The list of deer law violators apprehended ran high despite the fact that the department was forced to limit the number of officers in the deer hunting areas during the open season. No additional men were hired, while in past years sometimes as many as 50 extra officers were assigned to patrol in the deer areas preceding and during the season.

Twenty-eight men were convicted during November of carrying loaded guns in their automobiles and in most instances their firearms were confiscated.

Twelve convictions were reported for loaning, borrowing or using illegal licenses. Several included illegal hunting on resident or non-resident licenses.

Among the other convictions for violations of various conservation laws in November were:

Illegal possession of trout 1; illegal use of fishing net 5; hunting or trapping on game refuge 3; killing or possessing an elk 2; possession or sale of undersized fish 9; failing to have traps properly tagged 2; hunting waterfowl from a motorboat 3; selling or buying wild ducks 5; illegal use of duck blind 1; illegal possession of raccoon pelts 8; trapping mink during closed season 3; illegal possession of pheasants 6.

Destroying raccoon den 1; possession of prairie chicken illegally 1; killing or possessing partides during closed season 20; possession more than limit of rabbits 2; hunting rabbits from automobile 1; failing to report hides in possession 3; trapping muskrats during closed season 18; hindering the work of an officer 3; illegal possession of beaver pelts 7; shooting ducks during closed season 1; illegal possession of fox squirrels 5; shooting grebes 1; trespassing on state lands 1; shooting quail 3.

Conservation officers confiscated 89 rifles and shotguns from law violators during November. In addition they took 14 raccoon pelts; 2 mink, 1 opossum, 93 muskrats, 11 beaver, 96 traps and 13 fishing nets.

The 317 violators convicted in November paid a total of $2,125 in fines and $1,362 in court costs. In addition jail sentences aggregated 1,635 days. Many of those convicted were placed on parole for periods up to one year or their fines were suspended.

EDITORIAL

NOT IN ACCORD

ACCUMULATING evidence of the inability of President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt and Vice President Elect John Garner, to cause "their mind to run together"—a phrase coined during the administration of the late President Woodrow Wilson—on vital national issues, must be regarded as cause for concern to a nation looking to a new administration to lead us back into a period of at least comparative economic prosperity.

A few weeks ago Speaker Garner's announcement that he favored the immediate enactment of a national sales tax, as a means of balancing the budget, was met by the announcement that President Elect Roosevelt was "horror-stricken" by such a proposal.

On Thursday President Elect Roosevelt met in conference with Democratic leaders of congress, when it was agreed that a sharp income tax boost should be accepted as the major plank in a program to bring governmental revenues up to government outgo. The conference had scarcely been closed when rumors of dissent among Democratic congressmen spread about Washington and were followed by an announcement from the vice president elect that he had a tax plan which he thought would be "not quite so painful and more effective."

Such divergence of opinion among the two men, who must be regarded as possessing the power to direct the destinies of the nation, after March 4 next, is not encouraging to a people who have pinned their faith upon the development, by the new administration, of a unified program of relief from overpowering tax burdens and the laying of a foundation for the return of economic prosperity.

USE YOUR CHRISTMAS TREE

ANNOUNCEMENT yesterday by the city management that the usual after-holiday collection of discarded Christmas trees will not be made this year, should not result in the cluttering of alleys and rear yards with these evidences of Christmas observance.

Trees removed from the home can be set upright in the snow, about entrances and front yards and remain things of beauty until spring comes. There was tragedy enough in the cutting of your Christmas tree, without making it a bedraggled addition to a rubbish pile, before its time. Under normal winter temperatures most of these trees will retain their needles until warm spring sunshine comes and beauty may be added to front yards for weeks to come, through just a little effort and the exercise of just a little thought.

In addition native winter birds will find these temporary trees useful as shelters from wintry winds and they may also be converted into interesting feeding stations. Sunflower and other seeds, enclosed in a ball with suet and moulded in a loosely woven string bag, provides an excellent feeding device. The bag may be suspended in the tree and allowed to swing. It is said the English sparrow is about the only winter bird that will not be found feeding from it.

It will take years for nature to replace the Christmas tree used in your home this season, so make the greatest possible use of it.

ENDORSE DILLMAN

MEMBERS of the Delta county board of supervisors, in common with the governing body of practically every county in the peninsula, has adopted a resolution unanimously endorsing the candidacy of Grover C. Dillman, state highway commissioner, for reelection at the coming spring election.

Such an endorsement of a public official, who has made good at his job, is not only proper but in keeping with a spirit of fair play, such as should govern selections for non-political offices. And the action of the Delta county board of supervisors at their recent meeting, can be said to represent the sentiment of the people of this county.

Certainly there is no man in Michigan who by any stretch of the imagination can be said to know the road building needs of the state and the program laid out for prosecuting road improvements, over the next period of years, as does Mr. Dillman.

It is equally true that in all the history of Michigan road building there has been no state highway commissioner, who has more thoroughly made good at his job than has Mr. Dillman. In spite of the monumental proportions of the work falling into the hands of the state highway department, under his tenure in office, it is one state department against which no hint of scandal or of graft of any kind, has ever been even rumored.

Michigan's road building and maintenance job has become one of this state's biggest jobs. Mr. Dillman has proven his ability to handle that job and there cannot but be general approval by the people of this and every county in the state, of the action taken by our county board in endorsing Mr. Dillman's candidacy for reelection.

ANOTHER FORGOTTEN MAN

ONE of the oddest quirks of court procedure came to light in Brooklyn not long ago when a prisoner who has spent more than two years in jail respectfully asked the court if he couldn't either be sentenced or turned loose. And when the authorities looked into his case they found that he had simply been forgotten—kept in jail because nobody seemed to know quite what to do with him.

In the spring of 1930 he was brought into court on a charge of burglary. Appearing before Judge W. B. Vause, he pleaded guilty and was remanded to await sentence.

But then Judge Vause himself got into trouble, left the bench and eventually landed in Atlanta prison for using the mails to defraud. And nobody else paid any attention to the prisoner. He stayed in jail.

Seldom has the machinery of justice produced quite such a freakish case as this one.

OUR CHANGING HOME LIFE

THOSE figures on the "average family," presented to the Association for the Advancement of Science by Prof. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago, make interesting reading—and, perhaps, upset a few of the commonly accepted notions about the way Americans live.

Prof. Ogburn demonstrates that the average family has either three or four members, lives in a $5000 home and, if it pays rent, shells out $27 a month for its living quarters. Only one family in eight lives in an apartment. One family in three contains more than one wage-earner.

This brief collection of figures bespeaks profound changes that have taken place in American life in the last generation. It also contains important hints about developments which are apt to come in the near future. It would repay earnest study by sociologists and economists. The "average family" today is vastly different from the family of a few decades ago.

That relieved expression on father's face is the look of a man who doesn't expect to carve another turkey until next Christmas.

Now that they've found cosmetic jars dating from 3700 B. C. in northern Iraq we expect to hear at any moment that they've turned up a rowing machine.

Technocrats accuse the steel industry of holding life-long razor blades off the market to keep up the demand; but they can't bring that charge against the styptic pencil boys.

Geologists are right in predicting that New York will be covered by a mile of water in another 1,000,000 years. Father Knickerbocker needed worry. That's no better than 39,000 speakensleapake it now.

LYRICS OF LIFE

ODD MOMENTS

We're making use of many a thing
Discarded in a richer day.
The things we used to throw away
A splintered board, a tattered string.
We're fixing over last year's hat,
And last year's coat, and such as that.

And yet the greatest thing of all
We need to use is this new year.
To grieve not only goers
But moments that we once let fall.
The minutes that we wasted when
They meant so very little then.

We must reorganize our lives,
The golden hours we used to waste
With neither idleness nor haste
Live fully each, as each arrives,
Accomplish something, small or great,
For better far to work than wait.

SPOTLIGHT

(By NEA Service)

BY H. W. CORLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SHEILA SHAYNE, 18, whose parents were well known vaudeville actors, is in New York looking for a job. Sheila is a dancer. In spite of the fact that she has spent almost her entire life on the stage her ambition is to marry and have a home like those she has seen in small towns in which she has played.

On a few hours' notice she is hired to take the place of DAISY GLEASON, another dancer, who has sprained an ankle. Sheila goes to JOE PARKER's office in "Tin Pan Alley" to rehearse. There she meets TREVOR LANE and DICK STANLEY, both rich. Lane asks Sheila to dance at a party he is giving but she refuses, knowing that after a day of rehearsing and the performance that night she will be too tired.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VI
THE ride to Jackson Heights in the subway was tiresome. Sheila had practised all day, hardly stopping for lunch, her muscles becoming more painful as the hours progressed. She knew that a dancer already known as a success would never have consented to fill in this way after weeks without practice.

Of course there were few dance instructors like Brady. This Sheila understood. Brady had been patient and she had intelligence and talent but no one, not even Brady, could turn out a really finished number in so short a time.

Next week some time—Bill had been rather vague about it—there would be another lesson. Three routines for $50 was his price and Roscoe had probably not overpaid him for rushing Sheila through the paces.

Her muscles did ache fearfully. If she had had the money to spare Sheila would have taken a cab. She did not have the money and her little overnight bag, with make-up and a book to read during waits, stood at her feet in the subway car where fare was only a nickel.

Maybe I should have gone to Mr. Lane's party after all, Sheila thought ruefully. "Seventy-five dollars is a lot of money. And he said I could sing."

But she had not telephoned the number Dick Stanley had left for her. Neither had he called back to remind her that the opportunity was still open. He might have done that. She had hardly expected it, yet was disappointed because he didn't.

Well, $75 is $75 but a job is a job, too. And, for a while at least, Sheila had a job.

She had three numbers—the little eccentric dance for which Bill had trained her so ruthlessly, a tap dance during which his well-shod foot and Timmy's head had nodded brisk approval, and a singing number the steps for which Bill had said might just as well be improvised.

Daisy's costumes might be a little short but they would do. Sheila had brought her own hose, her own slippers. No, there was nothing she had forgotten.

LEAVING the subway she took a trolley car and after making two transfers arrived at the theater door. It was barely six o'clock. She had time to eat and make up, to say nothing of resting a little. She would have time also to become acquainted with the other members of the company. There would be Roscoe's band, Lottie Blair and the other specialty numbers.

Perhaps she knew some of them all ready. Hadn't she heard somewhere that Phil Short was with Roscoe now? He had played the saxophone with a radio orchestra on a commercial program. Yes, she was certain Phil would be there.

Sheila hoped the other dancers would like her and not regard her with that suspicious jealousy so frequently shown other members of their own terpsichorean band. The Dancing Doves were nice, though. She had met them on a bill in Atlantic City.

Roscoe, a rather fat, harassed-looking young man with a baby face and pleasing smile, met her at the stage door with a great shout of relief. Roscoe was already dressed for the act. His careful tie and beautifully cut clothes bespoke a successful season.

"So you got here! That's great," was his greeting as he wiped a perspiring face and tucked his handkerchief into a pocket before holding out a hand in greeting.

"Sure," he went on. "I know Bill phoned you were coming, but here's many a slip between Bill's say-so and a personal appearance at the theater. It's great to see you."

Sheila smiled and passed along. Roscoe, whom she scarcely knew by sight, had greeted her as an old friend or, as indeed she was—a life-saver. By tomorrow night he would probably call her "sweetheart." That wouldn't mean anything either. Roscoe would never attempt to get fresh. His friendliness showed simply that he appreciated her quick work in learning the routine and that he recognized her as a trouper.

At the door of the dressing room Roscoe, who had caught up with her, confirmed Bill's rather sketchy ideas about her salary. "We'll need you for six weeks anyhow," was his comfortable assurance. "Maybe longer. Depends on how the kid's ankle behaves. Then maybe I can work you in with my other band."

"That's great, Roscoe. About the other band, I mean. I'm sorry about Daisy."

"Yeah. Tough break." He waved behind him toward a dressing room. "You're no prima donna, I hate. Sheila. Have to put you in with the rest of the girls."

He regarded her anxiously and Sheila's heart leaped. Then he did regard her as somebody and was apologizing for placing her in an unstarred room!

"That's all right, Roscoe. More fun anyhow during the waits."

He breathed a trifle easier. "Bill said you were a trouper."

WITH this compliment ringing in her ears Sheila pushed the door open and entered the dressing room. It was long, wide and mirror-lined. A wide board at right angles ran along the walls and formed the dressing tables. Chairs were set at intervals in front of it, their backs hung with cretine pockets. Some spaces were empty, others crowded with paraphernalia of the profession—powder puffs, curling irons, powder cans, rouge and cold cream pots, tins of cosmetics, even spools of thread set in orderly rows.

Lottie, who was "dressed like a Watteau shepherdess gone Ziegfeld," as she expressed it, sat in a rocking chair working at some embroidery and chatting affably with the feminine member of a kid act who had not, Lottie later confided (rather needlessly), been a kid for almost 30 years.

Lottie greeted Sheila languidly and presented Miss Kilcoyne who snickered and bobbed her curls in what was meant to be a nursery courtesy.

Out in front, Sheila reflected, Miss Kilcoyne might seem to be a not-too-critical audience "cute." High falsetto baby voice, curls, large, blue-lidded eyes, vacant stare and sassy swing of her brief starched skirts. The act probably was a dud. Most of them were.

Miss Kilcoyne, apparently reading Miss Shayne's thoughts, began explaining to Lottie in a querulous voice that she personally thought she was too old to play kid parts but Roy liked her in them. She continued to quote Roy's opinion at length.

Presently the girl's husband appeared, wearing velvet Fauntleroy, to borrow some cold cream. He too was past the age when he need fear the Gerry Society.

Later, however, Sheila was forced to admit that, as kid acts go, this team was not bad. Not good either, but acceptable in small time houses. The Kilcoynes were good scouts and she was to see them frequently at supper.

MOVING about, trying on Daisy's costumes which she found hanging against a sheet on the farther wall, Sheila tried not to groan aloud. Her muscles were crying out in torture. How could she possibly go on? Of course she could. That was the thing to do. Sooner or later the soreness would disappear. But as she moved from the wardrobe to her dressing chair she thought she could not bear it. Every step and every movement was agony.

"Stiff?" asked Miss Kilcoyne, watching her sympathetically. "Out of practice? Yes, I know. Listen, I've got some liniment. That is, Roy has it. Lie down over there (indicating a cot) and I'll give you a rub before you go on."

"Oh, no, I couldn't ask you to," Sheila protested feebly, but Miss Kilcoyne was firm. She switched abruptly out of the room and the girls could hear her tapping of the other dressing room door, murmuring instructions. She returned presently with a large bottle half full of brown liquid.

"I'll have you feeling better in no time," she insisted.

Miss Kilcoyne was indeed skillful. The small hands held a strength that was surprising. Sheila relaxed under the gentle yet firm manipulation, her muscles shedding their weariness with every stroke.

"That's fine," she sighed softly, relaxing. "I'll do something for you some time. Honestly I will."

"I know what it is to be lame," Miss Kilcoyne was saying, working vigorously, her body skirts swishing importantly as she moved. "Roy and I used to do an act." She chattered on busily.

Sheila lay relaxed, half-asleep, grateful. "How long have we, Lottie," she asked.

"Oh, an hour. Lie still."

There was a sharp knock at the door. "Is Miss Shayne there? May I speak to her?"

A familiar voice. A familiar face too, grinning, framed in curly brown hair. "Had your dinner, Sheila? Say, I'm glad you're going to be with us!"

It was Phil Short inviting her to dinner. So Phil Short remembered her!

THEATRES

Clara Bow returns to the screen at the Delft Theatre today where "Call Her Savage," her initial Fox starring picture, opens its long-awaited engagement.

As the heroine of Tiffany Thayer's dramatic story, a role which she herself selected, the famous red-head is said to portray a life nearly paralleling her own hectic career. It is the fight waged by a misunderstood girl to curb the conflict of desires that rage inside of her extraordinary intense heart.

In both screen adaptation by Edwin Burke, and the star's interpretation of the title role, "Call Her Savage," has been hailed as the most courageous portrait of a woman's soul yet screened.

As the half-breed sweetheart to whom she turns when society has failed her, Gilbert Roland heads the supporting cast. Others featured include Thelma Todd, as her honey-haired rival; Monroe Owsley, her weak-willed husband; Willard Robertson, her stern parent; Estelle, her indiseret mother; Anthony Jowitt, as a wealthy suitor; Weldon Hepburn as her mother's lover, and many others.

John Francis Dillon directed "Call Her Savage."

Beloved Opera Wins Children And Grown-Ups

"Hansel and Gretel," which will be presented Thursday afternoon and evening, January 12, at William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium, Escanaba Junior high school, is general known as the children's opera but like the circus is an attraction that the grown-ups are loath to miss. It is a case of "For youths of all ages; bring the children, don't send them."

For music lovers who haven't their reference books handy. It may be interesting to recall that Hansel and Gretel was undoubtedly the result of Humperdinck's association with Wagner, who during this period of intimacy was at work on Parsifal. As the older man had drawn on German mythology the pupil found inspiration in the realm of German folklore. It all came about quite naturally.

Humperdinck was asked by his sister to write some incidental music for a Christmas play that she was presenting for the children. This was so joyfully received that the composer lost no time expanding the popular tale of the broommaker's children into the three-act opera that bears the name of the Hansel and Gretel. It was first presented under the direction of Richard Strauss at Weimar in the spring of 1893.

Later in the same year Anton Seidl made a notable production at Daly's Theatre, New York City. The success of the piece was instantaneous. It was done all over Europe, and now enjoys a permanent place in the holiday program of the Metropolitan and other great opera companies.

Some great artists have appeared in the various roles of this opera. Louis Homer was the original witch at the Metropolitan in New York, with Lina Abarbanel as Hansel and Bella Alten as Gretel. In the present cast Constance Eberhart, of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, sings the role of the witch, Maria Matyas, who was a prominent member of the American Grand Opera company appears as the diminutive Hansel. Eunice Steen sings Gretel. She also was with the American company, and with the Cincinnati opera company. Olive Meninger has the part of the mother and Charles Dobson that of the father. Willard Rhodes is responsible for the selection of the company and for the production. He is a director of wide experience and true musicianship. Novel scenery add much to the illusion of the various scenes. The costumes are appropriate and the lighting effects wholly adequate.

SALT LAKE CITY was a village of only 1800 inhabitants in 1848, the year in which a great calamity descended on the community in the form of crickets. Countless millions of these insects swarmed into the fields of the alarmed settlers. Men, women and children did their best to fight off the pests. And then the crickets came. Great waves of these birds swooped down into the cricket-infested fields and began to gorge themselves on the insects... and a great portion of the crops was saved.

TO STAND TRIAL IN AUTO CASE

Former Escanaba Bound Over on Embezzle- ment Charge

James Webb, formerly of Escanaba, was bound over to circuit court to stand trial on a charge of embezzlement and attempt to defraud, following a preliminary hearing before Justice of Peace D. Alcure yesterday morning. Bond was set at $1,000 in default of which Webb was remanded to the county jail to await trial.

Webb is charged with removal from the county and concealment of a new automobile, purchased from H. J. Norton, and upon which there is $440 owing. Last October Webb lost his job in Escanaba and left for other parts taking the auto.

Whereabouts of the auto is still unknown, although Webb is reported to have told former acquaintances that it is stored in Baraga county.

When being returned from Kalamazoo early this week, Webb told state police that the car, covered with brush and canvas, was concealed in the woods, about five miles from L'Anse. Investigation of the story by the troopers proved the information false.

Webb did not testify at the hearing. He was represented by Attorney Harry Corgan of L'Anse.

YOUTHS BOUND OVER TO COURT

Kipling Pair to Stand Trial for Cottage Burglaries

Nick Gons, 17, and Louis Gasperich, 19, Kipling youths who Friday admitted entering a number of cottages and homes along the shore north of here, were yesterday bound over to circuit court by Justice A. D. Alcure. Bond in each case was set at $1,000.

The specific charge on which the youths will face trial is that of breaking and entering a summer home and tool shed belonging to Joseph Rousseau, city, and the theft of a number of tools and other articles.

Gons, however, has admitted burglarizing four other cottages belonging to Charles Bisdie, of Wells, John Mallongree, Wilbur Cowell and Dr. D. D. Stewart, and named Louis as his partner in the depredations at the last three places. He claimed to have played a lone hand at the Bisdie cottage.

Several other cottages were entered about the same time as the above, but both youths deny having had any part in the crimes.

At the Mallongree cottage two flashlights, a double-barrel axe, a first aid kit and a jack knife were removed; at Bisdie's a comforter, wood punch, books, minnow seine, wooden bats and jacks; and at Cowell's a kodak, two photo albums, pair of pants, flashlight, hunting knife, box of shells, polo shirt, pair of boots, jack knife and two cups.

Members of the sheriff's department and local police, continuing their investigation yesterday, recovered many of the missing articles.

Sydney Skellenger, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Skellenger, underwent a goiter operation yesterday morning at the Leila Post hospital, Battle Creek, Mich. Mrs. Skellenger and son, William, are spending several days with him.

RELIEF COSTS TOTAL $1,583

Food Aid in December Cost Gladstone $2.39 Per Person

Poor relief in Gladstone for the month of December cost a total of $1,583.41, according to a welfare fund report compiled by City Manager F. R. Buechner. This is slightly over ten per cent higher than November's $1,427.80. The increase is due to some liberalization in food distribution because of the holidays.

One hundred and fifty-two families, or two less than in the preceding month were cared for during December. However, the total number of persons receiving aid was 668 or two more than in the month before. This is about 13 per cent over the population.

Relief cost per person in December was $2.39 or $19.42 a family, as compared with $2.14 and $9.27, during the preceding month. Cost per meal was 26 cents, two-tenths of a cent higher than in November. In computing the costs, Red Cross flour and Welfare club milk are not taken into account.

That families run large in this city is indicated by the fact that each added in the last month averaged 4 1-2 persons, whereas the average for the United States, according to department of commerce figures, is 3 1-2.

LOOP WINNERS STILL IN DOUBT

Browns, Rexalls to Set- tle Issue This Week In Postponed Tilts

Ray Prime's Browns are perched on top in the Elks league with the Rexalls one game behind. Both teams have one postponed series which they will play off the early part of the week, and which will determine the winners.

The Giants with two postponed games have a chance to get into a tie with the other two leading teams by winning a majority of the six games to be played.

The Southpaws and Tigers are a cinch for fourth and fifth places unless the Paper Makers upset the dope bucket and take three from the Giants which would put them in a tie for fifth place.

Remell came into his own with a count of 2-5-6 for high game thus far this season, but Jack Kelly was not to be outdone and also countered with another 256. Geo. Graphos with an average of 199 was high for the week, and Mulrooney and Ed Busch marked up averages in the 190 class.

The Paper Makers will take on the Giants on Monday evening, and on Tuesday the Lions and Browns will get together. The other series between the Giants and Rexalls will be arranged for by the captains.

The schedule for the first half week off in good order considering the times. The second half will be started during the coming week.

Team standings:

Team	W.	L.	PCT.
Browns	16	8	667
Rexalls	15	9	625

LOAN IS SOUGHT TO MAKE WORK

Newberry Village Council May Borrow $10,000 From R. F. C.

Newberry, Jan. 7.—Ways and means of making use of the loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation in order to put local men to work and to obtain Newberry's share of the federal aid are being considered by the village council and members of the water and light board in a series of informal meetings held since last Friday. The plan generally considered will first care for the sewer conditions in the eastern side of the village where taxpayers have not had this service. Laterals will be put in so as to connect the properties to the new main which has just been completed.

Several members of the council and board have expressed themselves in favor of borrowing the money if some form of repayment can be arranged at which will not unduly burden the water and light plant and will allow for proper upkeep and replacement. The plan is estimated around $12,000 annually. Sewer construction done during the past two years has all been paid for from these earnings.

The rough plan now calls for borrowing $40,000 on a self-liquidating basis. Besides completing the eastern sewer project, moving the street lights from the center to the side of Newberry avenue to allow for the concreting to connect the pavements laid by the state last year, will be done if money enough can be obtained.

County Asks $13,000

Luce county has already asked for $13,000 from the $2,000,000 set aside for upper peninsula road work under the relief project planned for the country north of the Straits. This money is to be used on road work, widening the road between Newberry and Dollsville, deepening the ditches from the south end of the new Dollsville curve to the top of the Watson hill widening the McMillan road from the corners to the village and work on the Seney road to the county line.

Removal of dirt and ditching will make work for a large number of men. County Engineer Sleeper reports, it being the policy of the department to use manpower instead of machines in order to give jobs to the largest possible number of workers.

It is expected that plans will be definitely arrived at within a few weeks.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Sweeping impetuously forward, wheat today accord persistent gains in the face of big selling to realize profits.

General speculative buying, dormant to a great extent of late, appeared to have been aroused. Spokesmen for houses most conspicuous on the buying side of the market said purchases were largely because of belief that the climax of low prices had been passed.

Wheat closed strong at but little below the day's top, 1 1/2 to 7-8 above yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to 3-8 higher, oats 1-8 advanced, provisions varying from 5 cents decline to an equal gain.

Corn and oats borrowed strength from wheat.

A MAN AND HIS DOG

Vancouver, B. C.—Pedestrians witnessed a remarkably sight recently. A man and a little black and white dog were struck by a speeding auto and knocked several feet through the air. The man was slightly dazed but he did not pause to determine his own injuries. His thoughts were for his little pet. The dog had been killed. He picked up the dog and fondled it and then walked away with his pet before the ambulance arrived.

Eskymo Cagers Play at Gladstone Monday Night

BOTH QUINTS IN TIP-TOP SHAPE

Large Crowd Is Certain To See Battle Royal

Gladstone, Jan. 7.—The same lineup that trounced Rock and nosed out the strong Marquette quint will face Escanaba high here Monday night. Coach Keil announced yesterday following the final practice session that the team was in tip-top shape for the big battle. The practice session was marked by a fast, snappy workout and a hard scrimmage. The squad worked with ability to hit the hoop, far better sessions earlier in the week. The team is in the pink of condition, and the squad will be at its full strength for the game.

While Gladstone is rated the favorite due to victories over the track Grays and Rock, the latter a team with which the Eskymos had plenty of trouble, nothing being taken for granted here and the local mentor has reminded his charges of their defeat at the hands of St. Joseph's Parochials, a team which was later beaten by the Eskymos.

The starting lineup as announced yesterday will be: Damitz, Kirchner, Wright at the forward berth, after at center and Murphy and Burke at guard.

Reserve cagers of both schools will meet in a preliminary beginning at 7 o'clock. The main game will start at 8:30 o'clock.

ESKYMOS PREPARED

An exceptionally large delegation of Escanaba fans will travel to Gladstone tomorrow evening when the Eskymos face Gladstone in the Eskymo of a two-game series arranged between the two high schools. It is the first post-holiday game for both schools.

After a week's rest at his home in St. Joseph, Mich., Coach Carl Nordberg hurried back to Escanaba last week before the opening of school to whip his squad of cagers into shape for the all-important struggle with the Kelmen. Daily practice sessions the past week have done much to put the quintet in form and Coach Nordberg expects his players to stack up well against the redoubtable Uphys.

The Escanaba starting lineup will include W. Erickson at center; and Christensen, forwards; and L. Erickson, guards.

Christensen, a sophomore, has fitted into the lineup with the four others, a fact which eliminated at least one of Coach Nordberg's worries.

Expecting the battle to be especially close as are most of the Escanaba-Gladstone encounters, the Eskymo players have been given considerable practice in free throw shooting. The Nordmen have not been at all spectacular from the throw line and the Escanaba coach would like to see a little more consistency in registering valuable pointers. Monson must games was the only member of the quintet to convert most of his opportunities into scores.

Escanaba Rangers Play Hawks Today

The Escanaba Rangers hockey team will seek revenge from the North Town Hawks at the North anaba rink this afternoon. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

The Rangers without practice sessions lost to the smooth performing Hawks, 5 to 1, last Sunday.

The first inter-city game is tentatively arranged for next day with the Rangers playing at home here.

Casteel Gets Support as Crowley Successor

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—Michigan state athletic authorities will begin their task Monday afternoon of choosing a successor to James H. Crowley as head football coach here.

The athletic council will go to session at that time for the purpose of narrowing the field of candidates to six or eight applicants. Ralph H. Young, director of athletics, said today the new coach will not be selected at Monday's meeting but that the field will be narrowed. After the meeting, the athletic office and administration will confine their negotiations to the six or eight men left in the field.

Kalamazoo Product

On the eve of the meeting, Miles W. Casteel, assistant back field coach under the Crowley regime, was receiving the support of many of the more faithful local fans for the post. Casteel has been on the coaching staff seven years and had worked under three different systems of football.

Casteel is a Kalamazoo college product, one of the greatest athletes in the history of that school. He is extremely popular on the Michigan State campus and a number of alumni are suggesting that he be given his "chance" at this time.

The Name of Charles Bachman

recently resigned as head football coach at Florida, has lately been mentioned as a possible candidate for the State job. Bachman's record with the Alligators has been impressive.

Stagg Too Old?

Young said today the college will "pick the man and not the system," asserting a theory that athletic authorities would confine themselves to some exponent of the Notre Dame system in their search for a new coach.

It was definitely established that Jimmy Phelan, former Purdue mentor and now at Washington, is not numbered among the applicants.

While some support was still forthcoming from some quarters for Amos Alonzo Stagg, former head of the Chicago gridiron forces, general sentiment was for the selection of a younger man for the post. Those urging Stagg's selection insisted that he would prove a valuable man in fostering an improved type of sportsmanship throughout the state.

Crowley is busy winding up his affairs eastward about March 1, to look over his ready-made material at Fordham. Although he recognizes the man value of his inheritance, Crowley remained cautious regarding his outlook for next year. He pointed to a difficult schedule and to "the disadvantage that we will be expected to go through an undefeated season."

With the start of the British open for July 3, and the Ryder Cup matches proceeding on June 26, professionals who make the trip abroad will compete in the two major international tournaments and the special cup play all within a month in two widely separated nations.

The new dates may work a particular hardship on Gene Sarazen, the stocky Italian professional who will attempt to defend the two titles he won spectacularly last summer. His trip abroad will be forced to leave immediately after the American open and compete in the cup play at Southport, Eng., and with only a week of practice abroad at the most.

Boilermakers Put Minnesota Away

Minneapolis, Jan. 7 (AP)—Purdue served notice to the Western Conference in emphatic terms tonight that the Boilermakers are real threats for another basketball championship by trimming Minnesota, 42 to 32.

A second half comeback, with the Boilermakers exhibiting dazzling basket shooting, provided for the wide margin of triumph after the opening period had closed in a 19-14 deadlock.

Norman Cotton, Boilermaker sophomore find, led his veteran companions by sinking eight field goals and a pair of free throws as top scorer. Purdue, dropping the ball from all angles, garnered 19 goals.

Risley Is Seventh In Scoring Honors

Olivet, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—Alex Milankov, Olivet college's all-M. L. A. star, has a good start in defense of his title as leading scorer in the basketball association, and Olivet its first victory in seeking its second successive M. L. A. title in succession.

Milankov rang up 20 points Friday as Olivet trounced Hope, 56 to 36, scoring seven field goals and six free throws to jump into the lead among high scorers of the circuit after inaugural games of the season last night. Golf Association

President Fixes 1933 Match Dates

New York, Jan. 7 (AP)—Herbert Jacques, of Boston, attained today the presidential post of the United States Golf association, which he carried out the year's business in a brief annual session.

The national amateur championship for 1933 was awarded the Kenwood Country at Cincinnati on dates as yet undetermined.

Only the selection of the dates for the national open was provided anything out of the ordinary in the short, calm session.

The change was made, President Jacques said in his brief address, to evade "the usual hot weather we have experienced in former years."

With the start of the British open for July 3, and the Ryder Cup matches proceeding on June 26, professionals who make the trip abroad will compete in the two major international tournaments and the special cup play all within a month in two widely separated nations.

The new dates may work a particular hardship on Gene Sarazen, the stocky Italian professional who will attempt to defend the two titles he won spectacularly last summer. His trip abroad will be forced to leave immediately after the American open and compete in the cup play at Southport, Eng., and with only a week of practice abroad at the most.

Johns Hopkins First Army Team Victim

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 7 (AP)—Army's basketball team opened its season here this afternoon defeating Johns Hopkins by a score of 28 to 22. The game was slow and both teams had considerable difficulty in finding the basket. Dan Kelly, captain of Hopkins, was the star of the game, scoring 13 points. For the Cadets, Meier played a strong defensive game and also scored 14 points.

With the scores tied at half time with 11 points each, the final half promised to be close but the Army scoring machine could not be stopped and the Cadets immediately ran up a commanding lead.

Normal Beats Tech At Houghton, 46-16

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—Michigan State Normal college decisively defeated Michigan Tech 46 to 16 here tonight in a fast basketball game which observers said marked the appearance of the best thus far seen in the northern college's gymnasium.

The Ypsilanti boys ran up a 15-point lead before Tech could score. Solman, Michigan State Normal guard, was high scorer with 12 points.

Illinois Springs 27 to 25 Surprise

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 7 (AP)—A field goal in the last minute of play by Huddle Hellmich, tonight gave Illinois a surprising 27 to 25 victory over Northwestern in the opening of the Western Conference basketball season.

The battle was close and rough all the way, and the score was tied twice during the last three minutes of play. After Frank Froeschauer had tied it at 25-all for Illinois, Hellmich, Illinois' big center, battled the ball through the hoop for the deciding points.

Record In 60-Meter Dash Is Shattered

New York, Jan. 7 (AP)—Ed Siegel, former New York schoolboy, tonight broke Bob McAllister's indoor world record of 7 1/5 seconds for the 60-meter dash as he won the first of ten three races in the American sprint series at the Columbus Council, Knights of Columbus, indoor track and field games, in 7 seconds flat.

ARMOUR RESTS, SHATTERS PAR

Has Hopes of Regaining Both British and American Titles

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 7 (AP)—Tommy Armour, the "Black Scot" or the professional golfing brigade, is on a sub-par spree here that has the millionaire galleries of golf-wise Pinehurst pop-eyed.

Armour came here three weeks ago ostensibly to rest, but confidently to tune up for the U. S. open, the British open and the other big money events of the summer season and this is how he has rested:

Played eighteen holes of golf daily.

Shot 13 subpar rounds in two weeks.

Tied the 64 stroke record for the number two championship course, held by Joe Turnesa, of Elmford, N. Y.

Armour posted a 69 yesterday, two under par to wind up what he calls the best streak of golf in his long career on the links.

Two or three days before that he cruised around the treacherous championship layout in 64 strokes to tie Turnesa's record. Armour's mark will not be recognized, however, as it was not made in competition.

Armour won't admit it, but he is secretly elated over the form he is showing here. He has high hopes of regaining both the United States open and British open titles.

"I am hitting the ball pretty good again," he said between a couple of his dizzy performances. "I am hitting the ball pretty good again."

Armour will leave here in a few days for more practice rounds in Florida. Later he will come back for the North and South in March. That will be in his first major meet of the season.

Newberry Indians Win Thriller Over Sault Blue Devils

Newberry, Jan. 7 (Special)—Newberry Indians took their big game last night in a 33-31 decision over the Blue Devils of Sault Ste. Marie, taking the lead in the second quarter and holding it the rest of the game. A fast show, giving many thrills, it was a thriller for the Devils and Joe Peters and Maki running up 11 and 10 respectively for the home boys the large number of Newberry fans who journeyed over to the city for the game got their money's worth. The game was played with unusual freedom from fouls although both captains went on personals in the fourth quarter. The Sault made its last basket after time but the referee had not yet ended the game and the score was counted.

Pirates Prepare For Training Camp

Pittsburgh, Jan. 7 (AP)—Training camp, which caused such a stir at the recent major league baseball meetings, is not reflected in the jump-off dates announced tonight by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The first squad of Buccos will leave for Paso Robles, Calif., on Sunday morning, February 19.

A year ago the advance party shoved off one day earlier. Inasmuch as the Pittsburgh training camp must dovetail with those of the Cubs, Giants and White Sox, it seems unlikely that they will be any radical departures on the parts of these teams.

Detroit City Can't Find Basket; 19-14

Hillsdale, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—Establishing a lead which it held throughout the game, Hillsdale college defeated Detroit City college 19 to 14 in a basketball game here tonight.

The only basket scored by Detroit was credited to Berent, a guard. All the other points were made from three throws. Detroit had numerous shots at the basket but apparently was off on its shooting tonight.

Colleges Make Best Grapplers, Says Keen

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—That top notchers among college wrestlers would win 90 percent of their matches if pitted against the general run of professionals is the opinion of Clifford Keen, wrestling coach at University of Michigan.

Coach Keen believes that the average whisker-pulling headlock artist knows little of the ancient science of wrestling and would be helpless against a college boy, well coached in fundamentals.

Wrestling as a college sport never has been much commercialized, but the game has become a disgusting and nauseating effort on a student of the wrestling game," Coach Keen said today, "because it is so apparent that professional bouts are all 'bunko' and a fraud on the public."

Keen was a champion during his undergraduate days at Oklahoma A. & M. He was conference champion in 1923, 1923 and 1924 and won the title in the 150-pound class at the first national collegiate meet in 1924.

He never was defeated.

FOUR ARE TIED IN GOLF MATCH

Leaders Two Under Par In First Day at Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Jan. 7 (AP)—Three professionals and a young amateur golfer were tied at 69, two under par, in the first day's play of the Los Angeles open.

Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., who has already won two winter championships, Eddie Loos of Chicago, and Clarence Hubby of Waco, Tex., professionals, and Irwin Goddard, a 26-year-old public links player from Pasadena, Calif., tied the 123 starters after the first 18 holes.

Charles Guest, another Deal, N. J. professional, Leo Digel of Agua Caliente, Mexico, Bill Jelliffe of Los Angeles, and Byron Nelson of Fort Worth, Tex., made up the group with scores of 70.

Nelson and Jelliffe are amateurs who have turned professional within the last few months and this test marked the sternest competition they have encountered.

Public Unappreciative

Professional wrestling, he has observed, is about 50 percent headlocks or other holds which involve the same principle. Amateurs do not use these holds because they are not practical if "the game is honest."

The man who tries a headlock is placed at an immediate disadvantage. But the public likes the spectacular—throwing them around.

"These quarters of what a wrestler must learn toward securing a fall," Keen said, "is maneuvering an opponent into position after getting him on the mat. These maneuvers are not spectacular and the casual observer can't appreciate what is being done. Most of the pro neglect to learn fundamentals and if sent against top notch amateurs would lose 90 percent of the bouts.

There are some good ones among the professionals, but most of them are merely actors. Of course some of the skilled grapplers put on shows even though they could really wrestle if they had to do it."

Luke Sewell Traded For Catcher Spencer

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—Roy Spencer, catcher for the Washington American league baseball club, today was swapped for Luke Sewell of the Cleveland Indians and an undisclosed amount of money.

Sewell, a younger brother of Joe Sewell of the New York Yankees, was with the Indians for twelve seasons after leaving the University of Alabama in 1921.

Spencer has been with the Washington club for the past four years. First-string catcher last season, he batted .251 and elicits right-handed, as does Sewell, who hit .253.

BEAT FRENCH CHAMPS

Score Tied Four Times In First Period; 15-All at Half

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 7 (AP)—Michigan university's basketball team upset the University of Iowa tonight, 33 to 25, after the Hawkeyes had been deprived of services of two regulars a few minutes before game time. It was the first Western conference engagement for both squads.

Coach Rollie Williams was notified he should not use Edward Break and Ivan Blackmer, slated to start at forward. The decision was made after receipt of a telegram from Prof. Thomas E. French of Ohio State, chairman of the Western conference eligibility committee, stating it would be inadvisable to play either Blackmer or Break until their eligibility status had been investigated by the conference.

The score was tied four times in the first period, and was knotted

THIEVES ENTER CREAMERY HERE

500 Pounds of Butter and 85 Pounds of Cheese Taken

Breaking into the Delta Made plant, North 15th street, sometime early yesterday morning, burglars stole a quantity of creamery products, valued at about $250.

Entrance was gained by smashing the window of the office door. Five hundred pounds of butter, wrapped in ten pound cartons, 85 pounds of cottage cheese, and three dozen turkey eggs were taken out of the plant refrigerator. From a smaller icebox in the office, two pounds of meat and a small quantity of cream and milk were taken.

Police are checking up on several clues in their investigation of the robbery.

Announcement

50c is a low admission price when opera is concerned and may lead some to believe that a second-rate presentation is being offered. We assure music-lovers in Escanaba and vicinity that Humberlin's fairy opera, "Hansel and Gretel," will be sung in the William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium Thursday, January 12, by American and Chicago Civic Opera stars who will positively delight you as well as the children with the beautiful music. This company played one solid week during the holidays at the Davidson in Milwaukee and Milwaukee Press reviews were enthusiastic in their praise. We are sponsoring "Hansel and Gretel" primarily to permit Escanaba boys and girls to enjoy the best in music and so are offering a matinee at 4:00 p. m. at 10c admission charge to school pupils. Admission to the evening performance at 8:15 for which seats are being reserved at the Junior and Senior High School offices is 50c. We recommend this production as being unquestionably one of the finest music presentations ever offered in Escanaba.
